

CALL FOR PAPERS

46th Cincinnati Conference on Romance
and Arabic Languages and Literatures
April 3-4, 2026

DEADLINE: Thursday, January 15th, 2026

WHAT IS CCRALL?

Faculty and graduate students are invited to submit abstracts on all aspects of Romance and Arabic languages, literatures, and cultures. While we welcome submissions on any literary, cultural, or linguistic topics relevant to our fields, we especially encourage presentations or panels on the following themes for this edition of CCRALL:

- Literary traditions, comparative approaches, and cross-cultural dialogues
- Translation studies, multilingualism, and language contact
- Colonialism, postcolonialism, and decolonial perspectives
- Migration, diaspora, and transnational cultural flows
- Identity, memory, and belonging in literature and cultural practices
- Global flows of language, literature, and culture
- Language pedagogy, inclusive classrooms, and curriculum design
- Visual culture, film, performance, and digital media
- Gender, sexuality, and the body in cultural production
- Environmental humanities, eco-criticism, and representations of place
- Creative writing, experimental forms, and new modes of expression

Accepted proposals will be notified during the first week of February.

Reception refreshments and some meals are included in the registration cost for in-person participants. Online participants have a reduced registration cost and are encouraged to participate in all sessions of their interest.

GUIDELINES

For consideration, please submit an abstract or panel proposal through the 46th CCRALL Google Form. Accepted languages include Arabic, English, French, Italian, Portuguese, and Spanish.

Abstracts should be no more than 250 words, outlining your central questions and contributions.

Individual presentations will be limited to 20 minutes.

Panel proposals must include the title of your proposed panel, all the paper titles to be presented, their corresponding abstracts, and the names of the presenters. There is a limit of four papers presented per panel. All participants must submit their abstracts.

Roundtable proposals must include the title of the proposed roundtable, description, and participant names (up to 6).
